Dear Margie

I'm enclosing a picture of the family spray lying on Charles' grave. It was so pretty, red carnations with just enough white baby's breath (or something similar.) to set them off. Grandma & Dorothy picked white & yellow mums. The brothers & Catherine bought separate flowers, thinking there might not be very many since he had been gone so long. We shouldn't have worried, as you can see from the pictures that will follow.

I wanted H.H. to take this one close up and let me mail it right away. Grandma just can't settle down to writing very often anymore.

A photographer came to the church before the people gathered and took some pictures of the flowers.

All the orders from out there were filled in time except Sadie's. She sent a large fresh flower arrangement ^{to the home}. It did arrive soon after we got home.

Well, I'll close for this time and try to write more later. Hope all of you are doing okay. Grandma is doing real well. It will be harder from today on since everyone has left. Hope all of you will take time to write her pleasant letters.

Love,
Betty

In Memory

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
